DETAILED ACTION

The RCE dated 6-20-05 is acknowledged.

Claims included in the prosecution are 1-3, 12-16, 58-78, 128-131 and 145-147.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-3, 12-16, 58-78, 128-131 and 145-147 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Spendleuhauer (5,766,635).

Instant claims are drawn to 'a unit dosage form comprising a sealed vial containing a quantity of cremophor-free nanoparticles of taxane, associated with a polymer". No specific amounts in terms of either milligrams or grams are recited in the claims. The only limitation in the claim is the functional limitation.

Spenleuhauer teaches nanoparticles of poly(ethylene oxide) or poly(propylene oxide) polylactic copolymer containing taxanes such as docetaxel and taxol for administration by various routes (abstract, col. 3, line 60 through col. 4, line 20 and examples). What is lacking in Spenleuhauer is an explicit teaching of the nanoparticles in a sealed container. However, since taxanes are anti-cancer agents and are for administration to humans, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to supply the compound in a sealed container or vial which is a common practice in the art of medical sciences. To include a specific amount of taxane formulation resulting in a 'unit dosage' for ready administration is deemed to be within the skill of the art. As pointed out in the earlier actions, since the amounts expressed in mg/m<sup>2</sup> depend on the size of the individual, human or a mammal (a new born infant to an adult or a mouse to an elephant), instant claims can include any amount of the compound.
